

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Verbal Family™ Tree Day

Set Friday, March 26 aside as a day to create your verbal family™ tree.

KENSINGTON NH, Feb. 15/da Vinci Group Inc. - Remembered Voices urges young and old to spend time together and consider the trials, tribulations, successes and achievements of family members and the stories passed down from parent to child, generation to generation.

The term “Verbal Family™ Tree” is used by Remembered Voices to describe the family history passed down through generations. The personal stories foster understanding and an interest in world events, beyond the dates and locations on a basic family tree. The experiences of a relative, in their own voice, add greater significance and perspective to our selves and our culture.

Al Brandano, President of Remembered Voices, suggests an event like last years’ Immigration Day at Abbot School in Westford MA (<http://www.wickedlocal.com/westford/news/education/x1202692649/Immigration-Day>). The 4th grade students studying the history of Ellis Island developed a greater understanding of the social and economic forces that have driven millions to apply for American citizenship. “My own grandfather emigrated from Italy during World War II, and opened a bakery in Revere MA. I’m amazed at all he was able to achieve as a businessman and a father, despite the language and cultural barriers he faced. I was inspired to develop Remembered Voices in part by my memories of him.”

“A better understanding of your family’s history can even help you make better decisions for your own life. To preserve your family’s verbal history, try recording the conversation. Gather several generations together, and ask one of the youngest to interview the eldest.”
